

Expository Writing Prompts

Use the boldfaced words in your answers to these writing prompts.

1. Explain how you might accumulate too many acquaintances. Why would this be a problem?

2. Suppose there is a discrepancy between what you think your grades should be, and the actual grades that are written on your report card. Explain what you would do to rectify the situation.

3. List the steps that a studious law scholar might take to form an appropriate schedule to balance his/her studies, work and free time.

4. Give at least five examples of situations in which you should not procrastinate.

5. You've been asked to write a questionnaire for people applying for the job of your school's principal. List at least 15 questions for new applicants.

6. Explain how you would deal with a mischievous person on an escalator.

7. You've been invited to a luncheon with a celebrity in a luxurious restaurant. Explain how you will prepare for this. List some foods you expect to eat.

8. Give three reasons why a person might choose to use a pseudonym. Then give yourself a pseudonym and explain why you chose it.

9. Describe what an unpredictable friend might do on his or her birthday.

10. Explain how you would deal with a neighbor whose dog is a continuous annoyance.

